Shot Timer

Each team receives 30 seconds to take a shot. If they do not take a shot within this time, the desk official sounds a horn and the other team takes a “free throw” at the spot where the ball was located when time expired.

The key to working the shot clock well is accurately timing a team’s possession and re-setting on a turnover. In order to accurately time a possession, the timer needs to understand the phrase “dead time”. “Dead time” is the period of time beginning when the referee blows his/her whistle and ending when the player takes a “free throw”. During this entire period, the clock should be stopped. It is easy to understand when to stop the clock, because you can hear the whistle. The problem lies in determining when the player puts the ball back into play. The method of putting the ball back into play is called a “free throw”. A player can take a “free throw” by throwing the ball into the air a few inches to himself, or by swimming with it. The desk official must be aware of where the official is requiring the “free throw” to be taken, in order to accurately judge whether the player has put the ball back into play.

The other function of a 30 second timer is to reset the clock for any of the following circumstances:

- The offense takes a shot.
- The defense regains possession and is clearly in control of the ball (having the ball tipped by the defense with the offense retaining the ball does not reset the clock).
- The referee calls a “face-off” where he throws the ball to neutral water.
- The 30-second clock expires on the offensive team.
- The referee calls a major foul.

If the ball goes out-of-bounds from a pass and is last touched by the defensive team, the clock does not reset.

The timer should start the clock only when the player taking the “free throw” has put the ball back in play, not when the incident occurs. In other words, the timer should reset the clock when the player takes his “free throw” or the ball is clearly in the possession of a player. The timer does not reset the clock when the foul is called or when the shot is taken. The most common mistake occurs when the timer resets the clock when the ball is shot. The clock should be reset when the rebound is controlled.

Game/Ejection Timer

A water polo game consists of four, seven-minute quarters, unless otherwise dictated by tournament constraints.

The primary job of the game timer is to start and stop the game time according to the flow of the game. As with the shot clock, the game clock stops at each whistle and does not start again until the “free throw” is taken.

The secondary job is to keep score, either by using the scoreboard or flip chart. Make sure that the scoreboard always reflects the actual score according to the scorebook.

The third job of this timer is to monitor ejection time. There are two types of major fouls, penalty shots and ejections. Each foul has its own penalty. However, only the ejection foul causes a player to sit out for 20 seconds. When this happens, the game timer must keep track of his penalty time and if necessary, let him know when to re-enter. The timer does this by writing down when the ejection occurred according to the game time (the scorer writes the same time down in the scorebook). The timer can record the ejection on scratch paper. The timer either adds or subtracts 20 seconds, depending on whether the game clock counts up or down. The result is the time the player should re-enter. The only exception to this procedure occurs when the offensive team scores, or the defensive team regains possession. In these cases, the player may re-enter immediately.

All re-entries during “live-time” must occur from the designated re-entry areas, which are on the opposite side of the pool from the table at each corner of the pool.

If the other team scores, or if 20 seconds expire on the game clock, the game timer is responsible to let the player know. The timer does this by lifting the appropriate colored flag up until the player has re-entered the pool.

If any player receives a third major foul according to the scorer, the game timer should begin waving a red flag as soon as the foul is called. If the third foul was an ejection type foul, simply continue to show the flag until the team and player at fault see the flag. If you have been displaying the red flag and the player still re-enters, you need to let the referee know immediately by using the horn, unless the opposing team has an immediate and likely chance to score. In this instance, wait until the first available moment to use the horn, rather than take away their chance to score. If the player re-enters under a red flag, it is a penalty shot for the other team, so make sure he has three.

If an athlete commits a third foul resulting in a penalty shot, let the referee know before the shot is taken, so he can remove the defensive player from the pool. You may need to use the horn to get his attention.

Scorer

The scorer’s job is a little more complex than either of the timers. This individual is providing a minute-by-minute description of the game and is ultimately responsible for all information regarding the contest. A properly scored game can be easily reconstructed to determine who officiated, which teams and individuals played, when it took place and where, and how each individual and team performed.

The scorer must record everything that happens in the game that produces a statistic. This includes everything from scores and attempts to fouls and steals. The statistical portion is extremely valuable for coaches, players, and the media.

The first step to scoring is to record the incidental information thoroughly. You should use a No.2 pencil. This makes dark enough marks for photocopying and yet allows you to erase a mistake to keep the sheet neat.

Recording incidental information includes writing the names of the referees, timers, scorer, players, and coaches, as well as the location, date, and time of the game. Make sure you get the full name of each player spelled correctly. This is extremely important for statistics. Do not accept less than a full roster. Additionally, this should be done before the game begins. You may use the program as a guide and ask the teams if they have any changes. However, TEAMS MUST USE THE SAME NUMBERS AS LISTED IN THE PROGRAM! No Exceptions. In other words, if the athlete is playing, he must use the cap number listed in the program. If he is not in attendance and the team has another athlete to take his place, the new athlete may use that number.

Once the game starts, follow everything that happens in chronological order. In viewing the scoresheet, it is best to think of the top portion as a summary of what happens during the game and the bottom portion as the actual progress of the game. If the two do not agree, the bottom portion is the one you must abide by, so make sure it is accurate.

The symbols used to describe what takes place in the remarks column are as follows:
E = ejection foul, P = penalty shot foul, S = score

Each incident that takes place is marked by writing the time, cap number, team color, remark code, and change of score when necessary. Make sure you record the white team’s score on the left, followed by a hyphen and then the blue team’s score. If you get them switched, you will be headed towards major problems. The beginning of the game starts at the top left side and continues over to the next column, until the game is completed.

In recording the summary information at the top, each area has its own column, beginning at the left with the roster that you have already completed, and continuing with columns for attempts and scores by quarter. These areas can also be used to record the incidental statistics (steals, assists, kickouts drawn).

Moving further to your right you see the column for personal fouls. Here you should write in the type of major foul in the top triangle and the quarter it was committed in the bottom triangle. For example, e/3 would indicate an ejection occurred in the third period.

Incidental Statistics

Beginning with the first column and each thereafter, you should record a statistic by making a slash in the appropriate column. Every fifth slash should be made diagonally across a group of four.

Attempt: A shot is recorded in the attempt column (ATT) whenever a player shoots the ball and it does not score, regardless of whether a field player or goalie blocks it, or whether it missed the cage completely. Attempts do not include scores. Total shots for each player are therefore the sum of scores plus attempts.

Assist: an assist occurs when one player makes a pass to another player, which results in an immediate goal. To do so, the ball must remain dry and the shooter must not fake.

Kickout Drawn: occurs when an offensive player, through his own efforts, gets his defender ejected for 20 seconds (penalty shot fouls drawn are also counted in this column). Although difficult to determine, generally the player who was fouled should receive the stat. For example, the team's two-meter set gets fouled by his defender too aggressively, and the defender is ejected.

The center receives a kickout drawn.

Steal: a steal occurs when the player takes clear possession of the ball from the other team. It is not a steal when the player wins a face-off or retrieves a neutral ball. It is also not a steal for a player to be in the way of a bad pass. He must be doing something active to produce the turnover. However, a player that forces the ball underwater when guarding an opponent does receive a steal for forcing the turnover. Likewise a blocked shot that returns to his team is recorded as a steal.

Sprint: At the beginning of each quarter, the players line up at the ends and swim to the middle to get the ball. Record the winner of the two players sprinting.

Goalie Save: a goalie save is recorded any time the goalie touches a ball that would have scored, had he not intervened. It is therefore not a save if the shot would not have scored or the goalie did not touch the ball. A shot can be taken without a save recorded.

Penalty Shots Blocked (PSB): These are shots blocked by the goalie that are the result of a major foul being committed within four meters of the goal.

Quarters Played: Since goalies may alternate during the game, you should record how many quarters each goalie played. This will allow you to give the goals scored by the other team to the appropriate goalie.

Timeouts: All timeouts must be recorded on the scoresheet at the time they occur. The scorer must also update a visible record or tally board that both coaches can see from their benches, indicating how many timeouts remain for each team.

SCHOOL'S RESPONSIBILITY TO AN OFFICIAL PRIOR TO THE SEASON

1. Send a reminder card or email to the officials after you have them scheduled.
2. Reminder should include date of contest, time, level, location and sport.

Even though many schools and conferences have assignment chairpersons, sending a reminder is highly recommended. When an official does not show, people in your community won't know who the assignment chairperson is, but they do know the athletic director. Avoid embarrassment.

3. Have a standard wage scale set for your different sports and levels and a method in place to raise the pay periodically.
4. If possible, let the working officials know who their partner(s) will be.
5. Hire police and security along with medical assistant or athletic trainer coverage for events whenever possible.
6. Set a policy with your school board on fan, coach and player behavior.
7. Make sure all officials have a contract that is signed by your school—preferably by the principal or IHSA Official Representative.

SCHOOL'S RESPONSIBILITY TO AN OFFICIAL PRIOR TO THE CONTEST

1. Prior to the contest, provide the officials with directions and inform them of any special activities that might be occurring (i.e., Homecoming, Senior Night, etc.)
2. Give the official a number they can call in case of an emergency or postponement due to weather.
3. Have competent workers assigned at all contests (scorers, announcers, chain crew, etc.). These people are of great assistance to the official during the contest.
4. Have a host assigned to meet the officials as they arrive. The host should do the following for the officials:
 - A) Provide a reserved parking space.
 - B) Meet officials and take them to the dressing room.
 - C) Have refreshments available for halftime and postgame.
 - D) Ask for any additional needs.
 - E) Introduce the officials to those game workers pertinent to the contest (i.e., scorer, announcer, chain gang, etc.).
 - F) Get the proper pronunciation of officials' names so they are correct when given by the public address announcer.
5. Athletic director should discuss with the officials any special events, conference rules, national anthem time, etc. that would affect the game.
6. Provide the officials with the name of the adult supervisor for that contest and where that person can be found in the event a challenging situation should occur.
7. Make officials aware of location of an athletic trainer or other first responders during the contest. Have a doctor on site when possible (especially at football contests).
8. Make sure all bench personnel are properly attired.
9. Do a check on game scoreboards and lighting systems prior to the game or contest.
10. Make sure the playing area is properly marked and meets National Federation guidelines for that contest.
11. Provide appropriate secured dressing area and hot water showering facilities.

SCHOOL'S RESPONSIBILITY TO AN OFFICIAL DURING THE CONTEST

1. Insist coaches display good sportsmanship and are proper examples for your players and crowd.
2. Have your public address announcer or cheerleader read the IHSA sportsmanship statement and remain unbiased during contest.
3. Make sure the event supervisor understands the duties and responsibilities pertinent to that contest.
4. Make sure the playing area is maintained during halftime of each contest. For wrestling, make sure the mat is properly cleaned and washed.
5. Help with adverse weather conditions; monitor accordingly.
6. Make sure proper crowd control is visible and in place. Good administrative control can prevent difficult situations.
7. Observe the crowd during the contest and prevent any disturbances that may occur.
8. Work with the official during the game regarding crowd control.
9. Retrieve the game ball at the end of the contest.
10. Escort the officials back to the dressing room at halftime and at the conclusion of the contest.

SCHOOL'S RESPONSIBILITY TO AN OFFICIAL AFTER THE CONTEST

1. Escort the officials safely back to the dressing room and parking lot.
2. Do not allow unauthorized persons in the dressing room after the game. This includes coaches.
3. Have refreshments available for the officials after the contest.
4. Be sure to thank the officials for their time and effort, regardless of the outcome of the game.
5. Make sure arrangements for paying the officials have been completed. It is preferable to pay the official the day of contest.
6. Ensure that officials are not confronted by anyone after the contest.

Internet Video Broadcasting Information

IHSA Tournament Managers/Hosts,

The advent of greater broadcasting technology over the past few years has brought about many new potential broadcasters and many new broadcasting platforms and mediums, especially as it pertains to broadcasting video over on the internet. It is important to remember that most internet video streams of IHSA State Series (Regionals, Sectionals, Super-Sectionals, Football Playoffs) events will require that a broadcast rights fee be paid by the broadcasting individual/company. A new internet video broadcasting fee schedule has been developed and is located below, but first please read these reminders on how to determine if a fee is necessary should you be approached about a video webcast of the State Series event you are hosting. If at any time you ever have questions on the fees or any other matters related to broadcasting or media, please call Matt Troha at the IHSA office (309-663-6377).
